Please note there is a small percentage of people whose skin does not react favorably to spray tanning. For this reason, we do NOT advise being sprayed for the first time when your appearance is important; e.g., weddings, any special occasion, photographic sessions, modeling assignments, etc. unless you have had a trial spray tan with Head2Tho Tan within the last month.

An airbrush tan will not protect your skin from burning in the natural sun or in a UV tanning bed. Healthy, hydrated skin will hold results longer. Wait at the least 6-8 hours after spray tanning session before showering. *use dark sheets if going to bed before showering. The initial bronzers in the spray tanning solution may transfer to clothing or fabric. The bronzers are water soluble and will wash out of most fabrics.

All the components in the spray tanning solution have been safely used in cosmetics for decades. If you had adverse effects utilizing self tanning products or moisturizers in the past, you may experience similar effects with the airbrush tanning. There are, however, rare occasions where individuals may be allergic to one or more ingredients in the spray tan solution. Please discuss this with the technician before proceeding.

We recommend that you hold your breath and close your eyes during facial spraying. We make this recommendation because most individuals would prefer not to breathe the mist. The solutions are not considered harmful in the minimal amounts that may be inhaled in a normal spray tanning session. The active ingredient most often used in all sunless tanners is called DHA or dihydroxyacetone. DHA is a carbohydrate compound derived from a vegetable source like beets or sugar cane and is approved by the FDA for use in externally applied sunless tanning solutions. The FDA recommends protective measures to prevent eye contact, inhalation or ingestion by using: Protective eyewear, nose filters and sealing lips with a form of lip balm. These are available upon request.

The bronzing effect is a result of a coloring additive in the solution that will remain on the skin until you shower. When you bathe, the initial bronzer will wash off leaving your skin with a natural looking tan.
